Agreement covers seven areas of Intellectual Property Rights (IPRs) which are protected in India by separate legislation. These Acts provide for civil and criminal remedies against infringement of these IPRs. For civil remedies, a right holder may file a suit in a court not inferior to a District Court having jurisdiction to try that suit in a manner specified in the concerned Act. Where there are provisions for criminal remedies for infringement of IPRs like trademark, copyright, etc. a police officer-in-charge of a police station can investigate a case on his own when the commission of a cognizable offence is brought to his knowledge. In case of non-cognizable offences, the police can investigate only on order of a Magistrate having power to try such case. Enforcement of the provisions dealing with criminal penalties is the responsibility of the State Governments through police force. Ministry of Human Resource Development has also taken several measures to strengthen enforcement of copyrights. These include setting up of Copyright Enforcement Advisory Council, organization of seminars/workshops to create greater awareness about copyright law among the enforcement personnel and general public, encouraging setting up of collective administrative societies, creation of separate cells in State police headquarters, etc.
